INTERNET DISCLAIMER

The Internet is a global entity with not control of users and contents. Therefore, available resources may contain material of a controversial nature. The library does not monitor information accessed through the Internet. Library patrons use the Internet at their own risk. There are information resources, which are inappropriate to a library setting. Since the library is a public place, library staff has the authority to end an Internet session that does not conform to the library's Internet Acceptable Use Guidelines.

The Northwestern Regional Library assumes no responsibility for the use of the Internet by children. It is the responsibility of the user (or parent, guardian, or caregiver) to determine what is appropriate. Parents of minor children (under the age of 17) must assume responsibility for their children's use of the computers, computer resources, and the Internet at the library. Parents or guardians who wish to limit or restrict the access of their children should personally oversee their use of library computers.

The Northwestern Regional Library does not guarantee that the system will function error-free or uninterrupted, or that it will meet any specific requirements of the user. In addition, the library does not guarantee the accuracy of information obtained through the Internet. Information gained throughout this source is the responsibility of each originator/producer; users should be aware that not all sources of the Internet provide accurate, complete, or current information

WARNING: Although virus detection software is installed on the library's computers, it will not completely protect disks from the chance of getting a virus. Software downloaded from the Internet may contain a virus! The library advises patrons to use virus detection software on their personal computers.

The Northwestern Regional Library is not responsible for loss of data, damage or liability that may occur from patron use of the library's computers.

All Internet users must accept and Internet Disclaimer before each Internet use.

I have read and understand the Library's Internet policies and rules, and I accept the terms of use. I waive my right to any claim against the Northwestern Regional Library and/or its employees arising from the use of the Internet. I agree to refrain from displaying material on a terminal when so request by a Library staff member. I understand that a violation of any of the guidelines will result in loss of Internet usage privileges.
